Ramadan 2021
Ramadan is a month unlike any other in the MENA region, when families and friends gather and celebrate together. Last year the coronavirus crisis changed the Holy Month beyond recognition, as lockdown and social distancing kept people apart. But despite physical limitations, the spirit of the season endured. For many brands, Ramadan is the busiest time of the year, and they were able to play an important role in helping people come together while staying apart, through imaginative and innovative executions from special offers to virtual reality to online iftars and more. This year may be a little more ‘normal’ than in 2020, but Covid-19 is still with us, and many restrictions and precautions are still in place. So how will this year’s Ramadan look for brands? What will return to normal and what new traditions will be carried on from last year? Campaign looks at the learnings from 2020 and at how 2021 will be even bigger and better despite the challenges the world faces.

The Saudi Arabia of today is almost unrecognisable compared with only a couple of years ago. And the kingdom is constantly evolving as its economy diversifies and its society liberalises. For brands, the constant state of change means Saudi Arabia is a land of opportunity. But it also means that neither new entrants to the market nor established players rushing to keep up with developments can afford to put a foot wrong. Campaign’s Saudi Arabia Report offers a guide to the media, marketing and advertising scene in the kingdom. We examine the projects and initiatives that are driving development, and look at the clients and sectors that are spending money. The New Media Issue
While talk of ‘the new normal’ has become something of a marcomms cliché in recent years, it is fair to say that the Covid-19 pandemic has finally bridged the gap between rhetoric and reality. ‘The new normal’ is actually becoming the new normal. Media, marketing and advertising have been transformed by lockdown, and when things return to ‘normal’ – yes, the new normal – they won’t suddenly un-transform. Media leaders in this issue will look at the effects of covid-19 and how it will change the industry in the long term.

Marketing F2W Faces to Watch Issue
Campaign ME recognizes the best upcoming young talent aged 30 & Under client side in the region.
The CX Issue - Customer Experience
Brandling goes far beyond goods and services, especially when the marketplace is crowded. Marketers are now embracing a more holistic approach to their trade that encompasses multiple channels and, increasingly, experiences. The way a customer feels in-store, online and when using after-sales services can mean as much as the object or service they have paid for. Campaign examines how top-notch customer service can keep your consumers happy and loyal, and we find out what it means to provide an experience that keeps them coming back for more.

Performance & Contextual Marketing / Behavioral Targeting
Programmatic buying and other forms of ad tech and martech hold huge amounts of promise. But what does it take to use it right? The boost in e-commerce that came out of the 2020 Covid-19 crisis has turned a magnifying glass on what it means to provide consumers with contextual and behaviourally appropriate marketing tailored to them, while the demise of tracking technologies including third-party cookies present unique challenges. Campaign looks at performance, contextual and behavioural marketing and advertising. We look at where the regional industry is and how it compares with global markets, and examines how to get better at it.

PR & Events Guide 2021
A detailed guide to the Middle East’s top PR and Events agencies, with details from their management teams, contact info, background information, Awards won to the clients they handle.

It will also carry a listing of leading production houses, freelancers and resources.
